About Me

Hello! I'm Jhastyn, a third-year student of Systems Engineering at the National University of San Agustín, located in Arequipa, Peru. Since I was young, I've always felt a strong fascination for technology and its power to transform the world around us. Currently, I'm focused on expanding my knowledge and skills in the field of web development.

I consider myself a curious and creative person, committed to my professional growth and the constant pursuit of challenges that allow me to learn and evolve.
